

To Arrive Today.

Several car loads of machinery for the Abbeville Cotton Mill are expected to arrive today. Notice of the shipment of about twenty car loads has been received.

The engine and boilers are ready for business.

Except a stoppage of twenty-four hours, water has been running into the reservoir through a six inch pipe since Tuesday evening of last week. The water was stopped Monday and started again yesterday. About three feet of water is in the reservoir.

The platform for the reception of coal is being built.

Installation of Church Officers.

At a congregational meeting at Upper Long Cane church on the fourth Sabbath in January, Messrs. J. A. Stevenson and W. B. Urdick were elected elders, and Messrs. H. W. Gordon and Geo. W. McIlwain, deacons. The newly elected officers will be ordained and installed at the morning service next Sabbath, March 7th. The attendance of the congregation was large. A full attendance of the congregation is requested.

Came Near Winning.

Of the ten thousand guesses for the "missing word" in one of the Atlanta Constitution's premium games, our fellow townsman came very near winning $1,000. Of the ten thousand guesses only one man guessed the right word. Mr. T. P. Quarles of Abbeville wrote down the correct word, but upon reflection he erased it, and substituted another. It had been stuck to his finger, and he would have divided the $1,000 with the man who did guess right, and who received the full sum of $1,000.

Happy Marriage.

At 5 o'clock February 17, 1897, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. L. S. Curdick, Mr. Hugh R. Crawford and Miss Emma H. Curdick were united in marriage by Rev. J. F. McKinnon. Four pretty maids dressed in white, with their handsome escorts, stood as attendants. After the ceremony an elegant and beautiful supper was enjoyed by the large party assembled. On the following day the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Laura Crawford, entertained the party in a like handsome and substantial way.

LOWNESVILLE LOCALS.

Happy Couple United in the Bonds of Matrimony—The Storm Monday Night—Lost a Wife from Home.

Lownesville, S. C., March 1, 1897.

Rev. W. J. Snyder, of the west Abbeville circuit, was the guest of Mr. J. Henry Bell on Monday.

Mr. L. P. Harkness, of Shiloh, was in town Monday seemingly as happy as could be, owing partly to the fact that he had lately taken out himself a second wife.

Mr. J. W. Britt, of Widesman, was for a day or two the guest of Mr. J. W. Britt, of Widesman, who is the father of his son-in-law, Mr. T. B. Clarkscales.

Messrs. Tom Liddell and Calvin Smith spent several days last week with relatives and friends at Elberton, Ga.

Mr. J. E. McDavid, a prominent merchant of Abbeville, was with the family of Mr. J. E. McDavid, on Wednesday, Tuesday and Thursday last week.

Mr. J. F. Scott, and Miss Mary Scott, of Lanes, were united in marriage last Sunday by Rev. Wm. Martin, and the happy couple left the next day for their new home in North Carolina.

Mr. J. T. Lattimer went over to Atlanta on business last Wednesday.

The storm of wind, thunder and lightning Monday night wakened everybody up and frightened them too, more or less. Some acknowledged the power of the storm.

Mr. A. L. Lattimer went to Anderson, Friday to see Mr. H. Hill, who was quite sick.

According to the appointment, the Lownesville Dramatic Club went to Greenville, Friday evening, where it had a performance that night in the High School building.

On the condition of the weather and the condition of the roads, the attendance was not as large as would otherwise have been expected.

The receipts were as large as expected, and the kindness of the people was all that could have been desired.

Rev. H. C. Fennel has put some improvement upon his place, which adds considerably, not only to its appearance, but much to the putting of the place in better shape.

Dr. J. W. Fennel was called to Lattimer, on Wednesday last professionally.

Mr. Rudolph McDavid left for Greenville Saturday evening, where he went to make preparation to stand a civil service examination. Hope he may be successful in winning a prize.

The Smyrna Sunday School, during the month of February in its weekly contributions, gave over sixteen dollars toward the Smyrna Orphanage, which is quite a creditable offering.

If every Methodist Sunday School within the bounds of South Carolina contributed even that sum, the Orphanage will be in a condition to considerably increase its usefulness.

Mr. B. F. Mean's Chapel, came up the week before last, on a visit to his sister, Mrs. A. E. Moorehead. As she was walking up from the way to the chapel, she was followed by her feet, and has since been compelled to use a crutch.

The unfavourable weather for plowing and such like continues. No oats sowed, no farrows run, and but little else done, even the autumn gardening department, which is being followed and will require a great deal of "it up and get" when good weather does come.

When a preacher, a lawyer and a general purpose young man go a gunning and get lost a mile or two from home, and do not return, it is a pretty heavy loss.

Yesterday, Feb. 28, Mr. Erwin Cooper and Miss Claudia Sharp were joined in the holy bonds of matrimony, which is quite a creditable offering.

By Rev. W. B. Werts. A large crowd of admiring relatives and friends were present to witness the ceremony. The rich blessings attend their pathway through life, and a crown of rejoicing theirs at the end.

On Sunday, February 28, 1897, Mr. Holley Brissett, a well known lawyer and a man married by Rev. D. H. Swindler, at the home of the bride parents, Mr. G. Gallagher, Laura Brissett, was the bride.

Misses Lulla and Lillie Hughes visited relatives near Princeton, Saturday and Sunday.

Owing to excessive rains little work has been done on the farm.

Miss Sarah Davis, of W. H. Hughes last week visited the family of Mr. H. Hughes.

Mr. W. E. Agary, accompanied by his sister, Miss Mamie, visited friends in Laurens last Sunday.

Mr. J. H. Oulia is busy replacing his mill dam which was washed away by the recent rains.

Mr. J. J. Richey has gone to Waterloo to spend a while with his sister, Mrs. J. J. Richey.

On account of the Cooper-Sharp marriage there was no Sabbath School at Turkey Creek yesterday afternoon.

Mr. James Taylor is having a nice dwelling put up on the Mattox plantation.

Mr. J. H. Blackwell had the misfortune of losing a splendid lawyer and a man of great ability, when he died last week.

Several mad-dogs have recently been through this community, but no serious damage has been done only to dogs. Polly.

Greatness is achieved not by doing some conspicuous deed that makes a sensation in the world, but by an unceasing ministry of love that fills up all the days of life.

Haydn, being once asked why his church music was always cheerful, replied, "I cannot make it otherwise. When I think of God my heart is so full of joy that the notes dance and leap."

I never was deeply interested in any object, I never prayed sincerely for anything but it came. At some time, no matter how distant a day, somehow, in some shape—probably the last I should devise—it came.

We think of the brotherhood of man as something the world started with. Rather let us think of it as something we are to come to.

Broce's restaurant is the place to get fresh oysters.

Children's jewel caskets in white metal, ranging from 10¢ to 75¢. Handsome white metal framed mirrors at 25¢, toilet cases, etc., at R. C. Bernau, the jeweler.

Hires and cattle powder, blood purifiers, garden seed and onion sets just in at Harrison & Game's.

CONTRIBUTED LOCALS.

What "M" Sees and Hears on His Rounds About the City.

The lecture, "How to Get There, and How to Stay There," delivered by Rev. Sam Jones at the Court House Monday night, was attended by an immense crowd. Many practical issues of every day life were brought out, and much good and wholesome advice was given. The lecture was fully appreciated and greatly enjoyed by all.

Our artist, M. V. Lomas, was called to Due West last week to make photographs of the college buildings. Mr. Lomas returned home satisfied that his work would be satisfactory to the committee. Mr. Lomas has recently established a branch of his business at Ninety-Six, as well as at Greenwood, and in doing so has greatly benefited the public in his growing business.

Messrs. A. Cohen and R. M. Haddon left Monday for Northern markets, where they will each buy a large stock of spring and summer goods. Several other merchants are expected to leave this week, and the business men are fully satisfied with their business during the past year, and by close prices and good goods hope to make a profitable and attractive business market in 1897.

The Misses Mathews, of Georgia, have now opened in the store recently occupied by V. E. Bell & Co. They have a new and elegant stock of ladies' goods. Look out for their advertisement and you will know where to find them, and where to get your money's worth.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Corrie and family will visit relatives in Alabama this week, where they will join in a reunion of the family, at which sixty grand-children will be present.

Mr. Julian Corrie spent several days in the city last week on a visit to his mother.

On last Friday evening a very pleasant surprise party was enjoyed at the residence of Capt. T. H. Jones.

Mr. Joe McGee, who has been on a visit to his sick brother in New York, returned home several days ago, bringing his brother with him, who is convalescent.

On Friday afternoon next the Woman's Missionary Society will meet at 4 o'clock in the Methodist church. As business of importance is to be transacted a full meeting is requested.

On last Sunday Mr. F. C. Hodges was transferred from Cokesbury church by letter to full membership to the Methodist church of this city.

The Board of Stewards of the Methodist church are fully organized for their work of 1897, and have made the regular assessment upon the membership. Pay a little every week and at the end of the year your quarterly dues will be paid and you will never miss the amount.

Mr. David R. Penney, of the Sharon neighborhood, is quite sick.

On Monday morning groups of negroes were to be seen standing on the square, and upon inquiry we learned that they had struck for the day, as in the past, with the day, and the interest of Abbeville's water works will not long be forgotten.

Our police and the State constables have been waging war this week against the salaried men who are enjoying the day. Liquor were found and seized by them at the G. C. & N. depot, and is now in custody awaiting shipment to Columbia by the way of the transgressor is hard.

Rev. D. W. Keller was down to hear Sam Jones lecture on the subject of "How to Get There, and How to Stay There." Keller has a fine charge, and is getting on nicely with his work.

FIRE COMPANY.

The following is a list of the officers and members of the Abbeville Fire Company, organized Friday night:

President—F. W. Giebel. Vice President—E. O. Ingram.

Secretary and Treasurer—J. G. Alken. Foreman Reel Company—W. G. Mosley.

Assistant Foreman—W. G. Mosley. Foreman Reel Company No. 2—W. F. Perrin.

Albion Perry. H. H. Harris. R. M. Jones. T. Miller.

R. L. Dargan. Townes Robertson, Jr. A. G. Cochran.

Walter S. Warington. J. Allen Smith, Jr. Gordon T. White.

The above list shows a set of good reliable men, who, being under perfect discipline and proper management, are a credit to the city. All able-bodied young men should enlist in this grand movement.

At an illness of five weeks Mrs. Caroline Reese, mother of our townsman, H. D. Reese, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wood, on Feb. 28, at the age of 29.

The deceased was a member of the Methodist church from early childhood. Her husband crossed the river just one month in advance, and now both are happy in that world where there is no parting.

Dr. J. W. Fennel was called to Lattimer, on Wednesday last professionally.

Mr. Rudolph McDavid left for Greenville Saturday evening, where he went to make preparation to stand a civil service examination. Hope he may be successful in winning a prize.

Courtesy in the Home.

I do not know a half dozen families in which the members exercise toward each other positive courtesy. I do not mean that I find most people boorish or unkind; but this, that while there is no lack of negative good manners in the family, positive manners are lacking—such manners as are habitual with visitors. This is plainly great American fault. It is a fault not chargeable to the Oriental races, nor in as great degree to some of the European nations. The glory of Japanese home life is tender respect for parents and the utmost regard for the feelings of brothers and sisters. That home life cannot be truly admirable and satisfactory on any other basis needs no argument. I believe we should insist more on home courtesy. From the earliest years the children should be taught to look with abhorrence on harsh words, or a lack of gentle ones in all common intercourse. Of course, I do not argue for the flimflam of "my dear," and similar conventionalities. They mean nothing, and cover considerable. What I look after is that beauty of childhood and youth which should be, and can be, cultivated into perfect growth and blossoming. We have so little of it! The fine faces one sees of 10 or 12 are almost all of them bearing marks of ill-nature and ill-protection, and the eyes are mainly deficient in every element of beauty. Why shall we have so little glorious manhood and so little glorious womanhood. Is it not because our homes our ideal is so cheap and our manners so empty? I understand well that manners may be fraudulent, but they may also carry the spirit gentleness, kindness and love.

Senses go to Sleep in Order.

According to the best writers on the subject, says an exchange, it has been ascertained that, in beginning to sleep the senses do not unitedly fall into a state of slumber, but drop off one after the other. The sight ceases, in consequence of the protection of the eyelids, to receive impressions first, while all the other senses preserve their sensibility entire. The sense of taste is the next which loses its susceptibility to impressions, and then the sense of smelling. The bearing is next in order, and last of all come the sense of touch. Furthermore the senses are thought to sleep with different degrees of profoundness. The sense of touch sleeps the most lightly, and it is the next easily awakened, the next is the sight; and the taste and smelling awake the last.

Another remarkable circumstance deserves notice; certain muscles and parts of the body begin to sleep before other. Sleep commences at the extremities, beginning with the feet and legs, and creeping toward the centre of nervous action. The necessity for keeping the feet warm and perfectly still, as a preliminary of sleep, is well known. From these explanations it will appear surprising that with one or more parts of the body, imperfectly asleep, there should be at the same time an imperfect kind of mental action which produces the phenomenon of dreaming.

Language of the Umbrella.

An American, after lengthened study of the subject, gives the following definition of the language of the umbrellas: "To place one in a rack at a club indicates that it will soon be changed; if a cotton one is substituted for a silk, it means that 'exchange is no robbery'." "A man getting all the raindrops from the points of the umbrella, which he holds over a lady, signifies courtship, but when a man keeps the lion's share of the article, giving the lady the raindrops, denotes marriage. To carry an umbrella under the arm at an angel implies that the individual following will lose an eye, while to hold it just high enough to insure passer's eyes and men's hats signifies 'I am a woman.' Lastly, the loan of an umbrella is synonymous with an act of egregious folly."
